Vernal Resovation—The summer is upon us. Disease and death in the form of missims are lurking around already. It behooves those having in charge the health department of the city to be on the lookout for every means of preventing the spread of disease. A complete cleaning out of the courts and alleys of the city is one of the most necessary and too often the most neglected, oppercutionary measures. Cart loads of littly, the accumulation of months of slovenliness on the part of carcless people, are permitted to lie and become preguant by the sum of diseases which do not show themselves till later in the season after some superficial efforts at renevation have been made, and people wonder what causes so much sickness. Along the lines of some of the most city sends the city, gutters are now, and indeed at nearly all times sending up offensive odors which proceding sends the city stored and postponed, a day of the the first medium to entertain them. Mansfield made his bow, and the manounced that it would be in order to select a committee from the audience. A number of persons were named in this connection by the audience, among others by. Grubb. But Mansfield made no attention by the audience, among others by. Grubb and Jacob W. Grubb But Mansfield paid no attention what were to the wishes of the audience of the court and alleys of the city is one of the most neglected, opportunity of the city is one of the most neglected, opportunity of the city side of the courts and alleys of the city is one of the most thick by populated streets of the city, gutters are now, and indeed at nearly all times are now, and indeed at nearly all times sending up offensive orders are now, and indeed at nearly all tim wonder what causes so much siekness. Along the lines of some of the most thick ly populated streets of the city, gutters are now, and indeed at nearly all times, sending up offensive odors which proclaim against their dangerous condition. Particular attention should be paid to these matters.

But it is not alone in public places and retired courts that disease is ambuscaded, but in sheds, cellars and sinks where waste water and slops frequently find resting places to breed symotic diseases. Sinks are greater sources of disease than is commonly supposed, and it is to them that typhoid and other fevers and debilitating disorders are largely due. Carbolic acid and lime are more to the community threatened by disease than walls of stone to the military belesgured city. But, in addition to these, water is a great purifier, and much good can be done by opening the plugs and permitting the drenching spouts to wash all decomposing matters into the sewers, and give them a sufficient stream to carry the debris away out to the river.

At this early stage of the summer, too, particular attention should be paid by the proper officers to the condition of the markets and the commodities therein of ferced for sale. Stale meats and suspicious fish nre liable to pass without due examination at this time, and these, as well as withered vegetables, imperil the public weal. If they are offered cheap enough plenty of people will be found ready to purchase them and run the risk of sickness for the sake of a few pennies saved. These hints are thrown out now dissatisfaction of the audience seemed to be constantly on the increase, and was freely expressed by hisses, exclamations, yells and noisy laughter.

The "medium" explained that the manifestations would be made with the assistance of the spirit of the Indian Samoset, who was to be imported from the happy hunting grounds especially to grace the occasion with his noble presence. After this he went through the well known rope tricks, which have been exposed here so many times that there is hardly a school boy that is unable to perform them, and equally as well. We have seen these rope tricks performed many times, and by a good many different persons, and any one of them can tie and untie himself, thump his guitar and ring his bell in less than one-fourth the time occupied by Mansfield. This fact was evidently observed by the audience, as the clamor constantly became greater, and the cries of derision more frequent.

Finally a request was made by Mansfield that some lady in the sudience.

THE BOAT RACE.—The single scull race between John Barrett, of the Nail City club, and Ed. Clator, of the C. P. Brown club, attracted an immense crowd of people to the river banks on Saturday afternoon. This race was arranged about four weeks since, the stakes being $200 a side. The articles of agreement, as signed by the men, were published in full at the side. The articles of agreement, as signed by the men, were published in full at the time. Barrett was evidently the favorite from the time the race was agreed upon, although we heard of no odds being offered in betting, and when Clator won the race easily the Brown boys were naturally jubilant. The two men are about the same size, Barrett weighing 150 and Clator 15t the former is twentyone and Clator 154; the former is twenty-one years old, and the latter nineteen.

The friends of Barrett were so confident of his success that they did not think it worth while to put him in the hands of a trainer, and the extent of his training was his being taken over the course daily by Bob Anderson, Clator was in training one week, with Jimmy Manton as his tutor.
